Conclusions

Omicron manifests itself as a simple cold that passes spontaneously after a few days and does not lead to hospitalizations or deaths. Symptoms, when they arise, are sore throat and bone pain that last a few days. Omicron emerged in December 2021 in South Africa. The contagiousness is very high and has replaced the previous variants of Covid, spreading all over the world and triggering natural immunity. Omicron is made of 27 proteins, that is 27 mutations, while the previous variants were characterized only by the spike protein. It causes broad-spectrum natural immunity to all the variants of Covid. An immunity that seems to last for years and that is rapidly ending the contagion. Omicron has put an end to the pandemic and to anyone who wants to maintain restrictive measures, limitations of civil rights and impose vaccinations.

The pandemic of the vaccinated

After observing adverse reactions to Covid-19 vaccines, Charles Hoffe, a Canadian family doctor, began an investigation that led him to a position of caution and to advise his patients to wait before getting vaccinated and especially before vaccinating their children. In response, the Order of Doctors, after more than thirty years of career, expelled him and he was sent away from the office where he worked. From that moment Hoffe began to investigate the biochemical and anatomopathological aspects and made contact with other colleagues, thus arriving at a simple but complete description of the complex topic of immunology.

Immunology is a subject that does not end in the study of a single aspect, there are many that work in synergy, so there are multiple levels that become difficult to describe and disclose. Hoffe provided an overview of a difficult subject even for those who are doctors.

Hoffe starts from the fact that only 25% of the mRNA packets inoculated with the gene serum remain in the arm where the injection is made, while the rest spreads immediately through the lymphatic system.

Just to give an idea, in one dose of Moderna there are 14 trillion packets of mRNA. These packets were designed to enter cells and activate the production of the spike protein. But in reality, the cells that absorb these packets are those of the blood vessels and in particular the endothelium of the capillaries. The endothelium is the inner layer of the blood vessel, in the center there is the epithelium and more externally the mesothelium. When the packets of mRNA arrive in the blood capillaries, where the blood is very slow and does not have the speed that is in the heart muscle or in the middle area of the abdominal aorta or in the vessels of the stomach area, the slowing of the speed of the blood allows packets of mRNA to enter the endothelium cells. Once inside, they are opened and released, and the genes lead cells to produce trillions of Covid-19 spike proteins. These proteins are recognized by the immune system as foreign entities and the production of antibodies begins.

The idea behind these vaccines is that immunization is caused by the exposure to the spike protein. This is not a traditional vaccine, where the deactivated virus is inoculated, but our cells are taught to produce the spike protein which is the pathogenic protein responsible for the infection.

With this procedure, the spike protein, which is part of the viral capsule of the virus, is no longer found in the virus, but inside our cells where it replicates becoming an integral part of the cell wall of the vascular endothelium of the capillaries.

Here begins the problem.

Endothelial cells, that are perfectly smooth in nature, thicken as the spike proteins anatomically transform the endothelium from a smooth surface to a rough surface with small spikes.

At this point the platelets are activated. The rough surface is mistaken for a bleeding situation and the natural function of platelets is to repair damaged vessels, stopping bleeding. When the platelets encounter the spike proteins, which it is impossible not to meet as their number is very high and are continuously produced by our cells due to vaccine inoculations, they react by producing clots.

The presence of clots in the capillary blood vessels can be ascertained with the D-dimer test, which consists in the analysis of a simple blood sample. It is thus possible to find out if the person has recently had or is having situations of clots in the capillaries. MRI scans and angiograms are instead used to detect large clots, such as those in the brain, and are not suitable for detecting micro-clots, i.e., micro-coagulopathies that occur in extremely peripheral areas of the body such as capillaries that are tiny, microscopic, and there is no type of scanner or ultrasound capable of highlighting these micro-clots, because in addition to being small they are too scattered. On the contrary, the D-dimer test is a blood test that is done with a very banal blood sample. Therefore, if after the vaccine the person presents headaches, dizziness, tiredness, especially tiredness in the legs, a D-dimer test should be done to see if a micro-coagulation problem is in progress. Hoffe had all his patients tested for D-dimer between four and seven days after vaccine inoculation and found that in his statistic, which as a family doctor is quite reliable, 62% of cases had a D-dimer indicating the presence of micro-clots. In practice, most people after inoculations have micro-clots that they ignore. Most alarming is that there are regions in our body, such as the heart, brain, spinal cord, and lungs, that do not self-regenerate. Even minor injuries to the heart, lungs, nervous system, or spinal cord tissues do not regenerate. So, once they are injured, these organs are damaged forever. Furthermore, clots in the pulmonary capillaries lead to pulmonary hypertension because the heart is forced to pump more to overcome the resistance of the micro-clots. The damage may not be direct, such as a thrombus, but it may be indirect, such as pulmonary hypertension that forces the heart to pump twice as much as normal. A person who was perfectly healthy thus becomes a patient with pulmonary hypertension. It must be said that a patient with stabilized pulmonary hypertension dies within about three years because of heart failure.

We hear of myocarditis, especially with reference to adolescents or young athletes. Myocarditis is an inflammation that involves the heart muscle and is reversible. Unfortunately, what is not reversible is the damage. Cardiac inflammation forces to completely quit sporting activities and having to take a series of precautions because the heart has become irreversibly ill. Myocarditis become disabling because the heart does not have the ability to self-regenerate. This is the dramatic aspect in which many young people find themselves. Even when myocarditis is the most benign, these young people are no longer the same. The vaccine is leading to a generation of severely disabled young people. Young people who may be twenty years old but who must follow the precautions that eighty-year-olds experience. It doesn't matter how mild the myocarditis or pericarditis were. The pericardium is the sac that surrounds the heart, and this too can become inflamed. Sometimes even the pericardial sac can become inflamed. The problem amplifies with each subsequent inflammation. Myocarditis is observed starting with the first vaccination. They arise in the extreme periphery of the blood vessels where the initial clots occur.

Arne Burkhardt, an internationally renowned German pathologist, and emeritus professor of microbiology, had been contacted by families who wanted to know why their relatives had died in the first 2/3 weeks after the serum inoculation. Burkhardt did the autopsies but found absolutely nothing. The inside of the organism of these patients was perfect without any macroscopic trace of damage of any kind. All the organs appeared normal. Burkhardt continued to study these organs at the microscopic level and came to the discovery that within 90% of the organs there had been an autoimmune attack. Burkhardt reports these documents on his website “doctor for covid ethics” <https://doctors4covidethics.org/>.

This overwhelming data shows that gene serums harm and kill young people, women, men, children, and the elderly. Data that leaves no room for doubts. Burkhardt concludes that deaths will increase for up to three years after inoculation. The problem is not so much the adverse effects in the vicinity of the inoculation, but what happens later, after one year, two years, three years from the inoculation. Arne Burkhardt believes that we should expect medium and long-term adverse effects depending on the age groups, the hereditary predispositions of individuals, the quality of their immune systems, and the number of inoculations received.

Repeated inoculations of these experimental serums, still to be tested in the medium and long term, in which however a very clear toxicity has already manifested within a year, lead the immune system to fall asleep. People who have received numerous inoculations find themselves with an immune system so depressed that they are no longer able to respond to bacterial or viral diseases that they would have previously overcome spontaneously or perhaps with the help of some drug. Thus, inoculated people become victims of infections from which they are unable to heal, and which turn into invincible diseases, such as herpes zoster, infectious mononucleosis, cytomegalovirus, tuberculosis, but also tumors. The immune system of these people is so depressed that it no longer discriminates between what in medicine is called the self from the non-self and consequently no longer produces killer lymphocytes. We are witnessing phenomena like what has historically been observed with tuberculosis, a disease that we already know is resistant to antibiotics, and which will be more difficult to cure, especially in poorer countries such as Thailand, India and Vietnam. Where more inoculations have been made, there will be a sharp surge in cases of difficult-to-treat tuberculosis and cancers, an increase that is already being observed. For example, the US Army DMED observatory shows for 2021, compared to the average of the previous 5 years, a sharp increase in cancers that have gone from an average of 38,700 cases per year, in the period 2016-2020, to 114,645 in the first 11 months of 2021.

In general, if a person receives too many immune stresses, that is, if he is continuously immunized, the cell lines of the immune system that are supposed to fight the threat (sentinel cells and killer cells) are no longer able to discriminate against whom they must fight, they are no longer able to discriminate between self and non-self. In this way tumors that were latent explode, and all the so-called autoimmune diseases, as the cells of the immune system that had to fight them have fallen asleep and we find ourselves without protection.

The medium-long term scenario for the inoculated person is therefore rather disturbing and does not provide elements of optimism.

Let's retrace the history of Covid

The first cases of Covid-19 date back to the end of December 2019. There are conflicting versions regarding the origin of the virus. Westerners blame the Chinese and point to the Wuhan laboratory, but according to the Chinese the virus was created in the military laboratories of Fort Detrick and then brought to Wuhan to blame China and use it as a scapegoat. The Chinese have asked the international community to carry out an inspection of the Fort Detrick laboratories, but so far this has not been allowed.

The Chinese say they expected such an attack, and their reaction was swift.

By February 2020, the treatments had already been identified and by March 2020 the pandemic was eradicated. They eradicated Covid using three tools: swab screenings, early therapies and lockdowns.

Daily New Cases in China

<https://www.worldometers.info/coronavirus/country/china/>

The graph shows the trend of new daily cases in China and shows that Covid-19 was defeated in February 2020 and no longer existed in March 2020. This happened several months before the vaccines. The Chinese vaccine, Sinovax, a traditional broad-spectrum vaccine, became available in December 2020.

The pandemic was therefore eradicated without recourse to the vaccine, but simply by using mass screening by means of swabs, early therapies, quarantines for positives and possibly targeted lockdowns.

The Chinese authorities' goal is to achieve zero infections and to pursue it they are ready to take severe measures. For example, on November 1, 2021, after the identification of a positive person who had visited the Disneyland Park in Shanghai, the park was immediately closed, with more than thirty thousand visitors inside, and a medical barrier was established to swab people who went out. No positive cases were found. On 11 January, the city of Zhengzhou, with a population of over 12 million people, was placed in lockdown for six hours, to allow for the entire population to be tested.

In China, the pandemic has repeatedly reappeared. For example, at the end of July 2021 in Nanjing (as indicated by the second arrow in the graph), a passenger from Moscow crossing the airport infected four workers with the Delta variant. Swab screenings made it possible to identify infected workers immediately. In this way it was possible to trace the passenger from Moscow, who, however, had already infected another 300 people before being blocked. There were no hospitalizations and quarantines, and early care were sufficient.

The tools that have been successful in China have always been screening of the entire population, targeted lockdowns, early therapies, and quarantines. In this way, in China the Delta variant was defeated in just two weeks, while in Western countries it has spread, causing infections and deaths to shoot upwards.

The third arrow, to the right of the graph, relates to an outbreak in the city of Jingxi, a city on the border with Vietnam. In the investigation, the police identified four men who smuggled workers from Vietnam, a country with very high levels of contagion. The fact has gained international outcry as these four traffickers were forced to walk the streets of the city, with their names written on signs, in a march of shame. The central government in Beijing reacted strongly by declaring that the marches of shame seriously violate the spirit of the rule of law and cannot be repeated. The marches of shame were in fact banned in China in 2010.

Positive people in China as of March 1, 2022, were 2,873, of which 0.7%, that is 19 people, hospitalized.

In China, thanks to the “Covid Zero” policy, it is possible to participate in all public events, go anywhere. All Chinese are screened by means of swabs several times a month and if they are positive, they quarantine and early therapies are given. The golden rule is to identify the positives in the first twenty-four hours.

On average, the number of positive people in China is about fifty per day, but when there is an outbreak, it can exceed a hundred cases per day. It is likely that when the severity of the infection will be zero (it is now 0.7%), China will open to the Omicron infection to trigger the natural immunity of the population.

When the pandemic broke out in Italy, China sent help and doctors. On March 19, 2020, a few days after the epidemic began in Italy, China sent doctors, drugs, hyperimmune blood and equipment for intensive care. Doctors should have trained their Italian colleagues on effective treatments to defeat the pandemic.

However, their knowledge was not used. The Italian doctors were ordered by the Ministry of Health to follow only the “Tachipirina and watchful waiting” protocol, which only aggravated the patient’s clinical situation. Doctors who dared to use Chinese therapeutic protocols were turned away from hospitals, censored and isolated if not physically eliminated.

On this topic, an extensive and very well documented interview to Dr Peter McCullough can be found at:

www.bitchute.com/video/Om9evWpFGPQ7/

This situation has characterized the whole Western world where treatments have been banned or blocked.

From 12 to 14 September 2021, the “International Covid Summit” was held in Rome, which saw the participation of hundreds of doctors from all over the world, including Nobel laureates. Protocols for early home care were discussed and presented. Newspapers and televisions censored the event or described it as a meeting of charlatans.

Italian doctors have repeatedly written to the minister of health to inform of the existence of treatments and to ask to be met but have never received an answer. The ban on treatments can only be explained by the fact that the pandemic was intentional and that it was started in China to have a scapegoat.

The ban on treatments has led the pandemic to increase from 90,000 cases registered in China at the beginning of 2020 to 437 million cases registered in the rest of the world, and almost six million deaths. Following the Chinese example, the pandemic could have been stopped as early as March-April 2020. The comparison of the trend of infections between China and the West and the ban of therapies suggests that the pandemic was intentional. The graph shows that the cases of Covid registered in China appear non-existent when compared with those registered in the rest of the world.

Regarding the efficacy of vaccines, the case of Vietnam is illuminating. As of April 2021, Vietnam had no deaths and had a total of only 432 positives. The number of cases was low because Vietnam followed the Chinese model of screenings and immediate treatment. People were free to move, no masks or lockdowns were needed, and the economy was not stalled. But, on April 15, 2021, the government changed.

Daily New Cases in Vietnam

A pro-US and anti-China leadership was elected. Vietnam established military cooperation with the United States and the American government asked to start the vaccination campaign with Pfizer and Moderna. Shortly after, the pandemic exploded which in a few months caused more than forty thousand deaths and over three million infections.

It seems that the vaccination campaign has spread the infection. This is confirmed by all those countries where there were no cases, but where vaccinations were carried out to become Covid-Free countries, as it happened in the Seychelles islands. A month after the start of the vaccination campaign, the pandemic exploded and infected the entire population.

Furthermore, in the countries with the highest vaccination rate, the highest incidence of infections is observed.

It is interesting to note that in Vietnam the curve lowered, but this happened thanks to a very hard “military” lockdown, with the closure of the city streets, with barriers and checkpoints and the deployment of soldiers with orders to shoot. This prompted the government to impose vaccination on the entire population, with the result of further increase the infection and deaths, despite the military lockdown. All countries show this strong correlation between the introduction of Western vaccines and infections!

Another example is offered by India.

Daily New Cases in India

Coronavirus Cases:

42,931,045

Deaths:

514,054

Recovered:

42,324,550

<https://www.worldometers.info/coronavirus/country/india/>

In March 2021, the vaccination campaign with Western vaccines started, and immediately afterwards there was a dizzying increase in infections and deaths. The dead were almost exclusively vaccinated people. The Indian prime minister ordered to stop vaccinations, and in May 2021 he signed an agreement with Russia to supply more than one billion doses of the Russian Sputnik vaccine. As soon as they started using Sputnik, the infections decreased from 400,000 cases per day to around 40,000. At this point, India distributed home care kits to all citizens. This kit contains drugs such as Ivermectin that have been banned in the West. The use of this kit, which costs only two dollars, has eliminated the Delta variant. As in all countries of the world, now in India there is an explosion of infections due to the Omicron variant which is immunizing the entire population. The harmful effect of Western vaccines has been observed in all those countries with a high vaccination rate.

Take the case of the United Kingdom, one of the most vaccinated places.

Daily New Cases in the United Kingdom

<https://www.worldometers.info/coronavirus/country/uk/>

By May/June 2021 the cases had almost disappeared, and everyone was screaming for the miracle of vaccines. But in June the infections started to rise again due to the new Delta variant, up to far exceeding the peaks of the previous winter. In the UK they immediately noticed a strange fact, almost only vaccinated people got sick.

The decline that had been observed in May did not depend on vaccines, but on the very hard lockdown and on the fact that in spring flus naturally tend to vanish. Another dramatic example is that of Israel.

Daily New Cases in Israel

<https://www.worldometers.info/coronavirus/country/israel/>

Also in this case, the victory of vaccines was celebrated, but in August the infection resumed, far exceeding the values of the previous winter.

At the end of August, the Tel Aviv central hospital estimated that vaccinated people were 18 times more vulnerable and contagious than unvaccinated. While in September, Oxford University calculated that vaccinated people are 250 times more at risk than unvaccinated and tend to be far more contagious than unvaccinated.

The reason is simple. The vaccine specializes the immune system. For example, the first two doses specialized the immune system on the Wuhan 1, the first Covid strain that no longer exists since February 2021. The natural elasticity of the immune system was thus compromised, preventing the body from dealing with the other variants.

Furthermore, the antibodies are suitable for the Wuhan 1 strain and in the presence of new variants they can become dangerous, giving rise to Antibody Dependent Enhancement (ADE). An abnormal reaction of the immune system that was discovered over twenty years ago with the vaccines for the hemorrhagic fever. Nobel laureate Luc Montagnier has shown that in the presence of variants, vaccines for Covid can cause

ADE, that is, the immune system recognizes the threat, but the antibodies which are produced are ineffective and the virus spreads throughout the body. At this point the immune system produces more and more antibodies, to the point of attacking the entire body, leading the person to death. In Italy, the first case certified by the Italian Public Prosecutor's Office of ADE dates back to March 9, 2021, and cases of ADE are now becoming more and more widespread. This probably justifies the sharp increase in mortality observed in 2021 compared to 2020. A year in which a decline in mortality due to vaccines and the weakening of the lethality of Covid was instead expected. ADE now appears endemic in the UK and Israel.

It is important to underline that the war bulletin that is reported every day in the mass media with a high number of deaths must be taken with a grain of salt. The Report on the characteristics of patients who died positive for Covid infection in Italy, published by the Istituto Superiore di Sanità, on 5 October 2021 shows that of the 130,000 deaths of Covid in Italy since the beginning of the pandemic, only 2.9% was caused by Covid. In the other cases they were people already with one or more serious illnesses, and 67.5% had three or more serious illnesses, and were in a terminal state. These people did not die from Covid but were simply positive to Covid when they died.

According to the Istituto Superiore di Sanità, there were fewer than four thousand deaths in Italy from Covid, a number significantly lower than the deaths caused by seasonal flu.

Istituto Superiore di Sanità
Caratteristiche dei pazienti deceduti positivi all'infezione da SARS-CoV-2 in Italia
<https://www.epicentro.iss.it/coronavirus/sars-cov-2-decessi-italia#2>

On the contrary, vaccine deaths have already exceeded twenty thousand. Based on these data, it seems that vaccines were more dangerous than Covid itself.

It is important to remember that since the beginning of the pandemic there have been organizations that have offered free advice to Covid patients; one of the most important in Italy is the Covid-19 Homecare Therapy Group:

www.terapiadomiciliarecovid19.org

The decline in deaths from Covid in 2021 is probably due to these organizations that have saved hundreds of thousands of people from hospitalization.

The decrease in Covid mortality observed in 2021 does not appear to be due to vaccines. Early home therapies have played an important role and the variants are becoming less lethal, but more contagious.

Finally, since vaccines have been used in Italy, different ways of counting deaths have been used. For example, imagine two pedestrians who are run over while crossing the street. Both are taken to the emergency, where the swab shows that they are both positive for Covid. However, one is vaccinated, and the other is not vaccinated. The vaccinated pedestrian, even if positive, is hospitalized in a normal ward, even if in a single room, because it is assumed to be not contagious, while the unvaccinated pedestrian is admitted to a Covid ward. When they die, the vaccinated is counted as death from a road accident, while the unvaccinated is counted as death from Covid. This happens for all reasons of death. The vaccinated is counted for the real cause of death, while the unvaccinated is always counted as death from Covid. In 2021, Covid deaths decreased because vaccinated people were counted for the real cause of death which is rarely Covid. Conversely, Covid deaths among the unvaccinated have increased because, regardless of the cause of death, they are always counted as Covid deaths. This explains why in Italy the unvaccinated are prevalent among the Covid deaths, whereas in countries where statistics are carried out correctly the exact opposite is observed.

At this point some questions arise:

- why has been given absolute priority to vaccines, censoring all those, virologists, and Nobel laureates, who show the absurdity of this measure?
- Who could have an interest in promoting the pandemic?

Climate Change and CO<sub>2</sub>

Many will have noticed that the same politicians and head of State that support vaccinations also support the narrative of global warming and CO<sub>2</sub>. Let's see what the data say.

In 1972, the leading Western geologists gathered at Brown University, and at the end of the conference they felt obliged to write a letter to the president of the United States:

https://www.cpc.ncep.noaa.gov/products/outreach/CDPW40/CD&PW\_reeves\_denver.pdf

In the first two paragraphs we read:

“Aware of your deep concern with the future of the world, we feel obliged to inform you on the results of the scientific conference held here recently. The conference dealt with the past and future changes of climate and was attended by 42 top American and European investigators. We enclose the summary report published in Science and further publications are forthcoming in Quaternary Research.

The main conclusion of the meeting was that a global deterioration of climate, by order of magnitude larger than any hitherto experienced by civilized mankind, is a very real possibility and indeed may be due very soon. The cooling has natural cause and falls within the rank of processes which produced the last ice age. This is a surprising result based largely on recent studies of deep sea sediments.”

In the oceans, water is present as isotope oxygen-16 and isotope oxygen-18. Isotope oxygen-16 is lighter and is what evaporates.

Isotopes of oxygen

<https://www.alamy.com/isotopes-of-oxygen-oxygen-17-oxygen-18-oxygen-16-atoms-structure-image389827581.html>

During ice ages, water remains trapped in the ice and in the oceans isotope oxygen-16 decreases. The lower the ratio, the greater is the water trapped in the ice. Crustaceans maintain the ratio between these two isotopes and when they die, their shells settle on the seabed creating sediments that allow to date this ratio. The Quaternary graph displays the ratio between these two isotopes and shows that the first glaciation took place just over three million years ago.

Glaciations initially lasted about 40,000 years. The last one lasted 103,000 years and the next should last 120,000 years. Glaciations are getting colder and longer. They are separated by warm interglacial periods lasting about ten thousand years. The last ice age ended 11,700 years ago.

Quaternary

Ratio of isotope oxygen-16 and isotope oxygen-18

<https://www.wikivand.com/it/Quaternario>

Various hypotheses have been put forward about the causes of the ice ages. Initially, the coincidence between the duration of the first glaciations, of about forty-one thousand years, and the Milankovitch cycle was highlighted.

<http://www.global-greenhouse-warming.com/Milankovitch-cycles.html>

In summary, the Earth rotates around an axis which in turn rotates according to a cycle of forty-one thousand years that was discovered by Milankovitch.

However, ice ages now last over a hundred thousand years and the Milankovitch cycle always has the same period. Furthermore, it is not clear how the Milankovitch cycle can cause an ice age, since the amount of heat coming from the Sun always remains the same.

In 2014, astrophysicists led by Valentina Zharkova discovered that the Sun has two layers that emit heat, one internal and one external. When the electromagnetic waves of heat emitted by these two layers interfere in a constructive way the Sun is hot, when instead they interfere in a destructive way the Sun is cold. Using this model to reconstruct what happened in the past the accuracy results to be 97%. Using it to predict what will happen in the future, we find that in 2032 the Sun's heat will abruptly decrease triggering the next ice age.

Thousand years ago

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ice\_core#/media/File:Vostok\_Petit\_data.svg

As can be seen in the graph, relating to the previous ice age, the reduction in temperatures was sharp, but at the same time gradual. It will become difficult to live in the countries of Northern Europe, but about ten thousand years will be available to find solutions, before the reduction of the Sun's heat reaches 60%. At this point, life on the Earth's surface will become impossible, even near the equator.

Important data on ice ages are obtained from ice-cores of the Antarctic. Ice holds the information present in the snow. The snow forms layers of ice that allow to date temperature, CO<sub>2</sub>, volcanic dust and more. This data is very accurate and detailed.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ice\_core#/media/File:Vostok\_Petit\_data.svg

In this graph we have temperatures in the first row, CO<sub>2</sub> in the second row and volcanic dust in the third row. We are on the right of the graph and going to the left we go back in time until over 400 thousand years ago. In the following graph it is easy to see that temperatures vary before

CO<sub>2</sub>!

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ice\_core#/media/File:Vostok\_Petit\_data.svg

In the rectangle on the left, relating to the last interglacial era, temperatures decreased before CO<sub>2</sub> and in the rectangle on the right relating to the beginning of our interglacial era, temperatures increased before CO<sub>2</sub>. First temperatures increase and then CO<sub>2</sub>.

First temperatures decrease and then  $\text{CO}_2$ . Changes in  $\text{CO}_2$  occur after and not before changes in temperatures! This means that  $\text{CO}_2$  is not the cause of climate changes, of the increase or decrease in temperatures, but it is a consequence.

$\text{CO}_2$  varies after temperatures because  $\text{CO}_2$  is an indicator of the presence of life. Life is made of carbon. The higher the temperatures, the greater the presence of life and the greater the  $\text{CO}_2$  that is released into the environment.  $\text{CO}_2$  is not a pollutant, and it is not even a greenhouse gas. When the ice age begins, life decreases and consequently  $\text{CO}_2$  decreases.  $\text{CO}_2$  is essential for life. Plants and trees take their carbon from CO<sub>2</sub>, thanks to photosynthesis. When CO<sub>2</sub> decreases it becomes more difficult for plants to grow. Reducing CO<sub>2</sub> means decreasing nutrition for plants and life, and not to fight pollution or rising temperatures. For example, to increase the productivity of greenhouses, methane burners are used which inject CO<sub>2</sub> into the greenhouse. Increasing CO<sub>2</sub> increases the productivity of greenhouses. For trees and plants to grow, the presence of CO<sub>2</sub> is necessary.

Decreasing CO<sub>2</sub> will increase famine and hunger, and this will compromise the very existence of life and humanity on Earth. Those who are promoting the vaccine narratives are the same who are pushing for CO<sub>2</sub> reduction. Both these narratives are aimed at a drastic reduction of the world population.

But for what reason?

It is interesting to note that scientific studies on the imminent ice age, previously published in authoritative journals such as Nature, have now been censored and it is also interesting to note that all climatologists who study this issue are being censored. Climate information has been left to people like Greta Thunberg, while experts are being cut off from mainstream, as in the case of Judith Curry, a climate scientist with a professorship at the Georgia Institute of Technology and over 140 scientific publications on this topic.

Who are the actors?

It is easy to see that the same actors who have supported and sustain the Covid narrative support the narrative of CO<sub>2</sub> as a greenhouse gas driving climate change. Who are these actors?

In the graph we see a very strange fact. At the start of the last ice age, despite the sharp drop in temperatures, CO<sub>2</sub> remained high for thirty thousand years. This is simply impossible! The drop in temperatures is always associated with a reduction in life and consequently a decrease in CO<sub>2</sub>. Something “unnatural” must have happened, allowing life to survive and continue to proliferate.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ice\_core#/media/File:Vostok\_Petit\_data.svg

The only explanation that seems plausible is that an extremely advanced civilization managed to counter the ice age by keeping life at high levels. If this is true, do we have other signs of this civilization?

José Álvarez López, a mathematician and particle physicist, director of the Argentine Institute of Advanced Studies, was intrigued by the apparently meaningless numbers present in the fifth and eleventh chapters of the genesis. In the fifth chapter the ages of the preflood patriarchs at the birth of their firstborn and the age at death are listed, in the eleventh chapter the ages of the post-flood patriarchs are listed.

Before the Flood			After the Flood
Patriarch	First born	Death	Patriarch	First born	Death
Adam	130	930	Sem	100	600
Seth	105	912	Arpacshad	35	438
Enosh	90	905	Scelah	30	433
Kenan	70	910	Eber	34	464
Mahalaleel	65	895	Peleg	30	239
Jared	162	962	Reu	32	239
Enoch	65	365	Serug	30	230
Mathushelah	187	969	Nahor	29	148
Lamec	182	777	Terah	70	275
Noah	500	950	Abraham	100	175

Age in years at birth of the firstborn and age at death

In chapter five we find that Adam was one hundred thirty years old when he fathered Seth and Seth was one hundred and five years old when he fathered Enosh. The list goes on for all the ten patriarchs before the flood.

The same is found in chapter eleven, but for the patriarchs after the flood.

As a good mathematician, José Álvarez López began to sort these numbers by using, for example, in the first row the years Adam had at the birth of his first son, then his first grandson, his great grandson, and so on. Proceeding in this way for chapter five we obtain the following table:

Adam	130	235	325	395	460	622	687	874	1.056	1.556
Seth	105	195	265	330	492	557	744	926	1.426
Enosh	90	160	225	387	452	639	821	1.321
Kenan	70	135	297	362	549	731	1.231
Mahalaleel	65	227	292	479	661	1.161
Jared	162	227	414	596	1.096
Enoch	65	252	434	934
Mathushelah	187	369	869
Lamec	182	682
Noah	500

He then began to build tables by taking only the units, then the digit of the tens and the hundreds, and noticed that the distributions of the numbers had an order.

Adam	1 2 3 3 4 6 6 8 0 5	Adam	3 3 2 9 6 2 8 7 5 5	Adam	0 5 5 5 0 2 7 4 6 6
Seth	1 1 2 3 4 5 7 9 4	Seth	0 9 6 3 9 5 4 2 2	Seth	5 5 5 0 2 7 4 6 6
Enosh	0 1 2 3 4 6 8 3	Enosh	9 6 2 8 5 3 2 2	Enosh	0 0 5 7 2 9 1 1
Kenan	0 1 2 3 5 7 2	Kenan	7 3 9 6 4 3 3	Kenan	0 5 7 2 9 1 1
Mahalaleel	0 2 2 4 6 1	Mahalaleel	6 2 9 7 6 6	Mahalaleel	5 7 2 9 1 1
Jared	1 2 4 5 0	Jared	6 2 1 9 9	Jared	2 7 4 6 6
Enoch	0 2 4 9	Enoch	6 5 3 3	Enoch	5 2 4 4
Mathushelah	1 3 8	Mathushelah	8 6 6	Mathushelah	7 9 9
Lamec	1 6	Lamec	8 8	Lamec	2 2
Noah	5	Noah	0	Noah	0
Hundreds		Tens		Units

He obtained triangular matrices from the ages of the preflood patriarchs and post-flood, and he made these matrices interact. At this point the magic was unleashed. As he shows in the book “La Biblia cuántica”, he found the Planck constant repeated 42 times, the speed of light repeated 21 times, the gravitational constant repeated 21 times, the fine structure constant repeated 3 times, the mass-meson electron ratio repeated 3 times, Boltzmann’s constant repeated 3 times, the mass of the electron repeated 1 time, the Avogadro number repeated 11 times, the charge of the electron repeated 6 times, the Rydberg constant repeated 4 times, the ratio of proton-electron mass repeated 11 times.

López wondered why such an advanced civilization had to hide this knowledge in a book like the Bible and he realized that since the beginning of history, that is, since the end of the last ice age (11,700 years ago), someone has tried to erase the traces of the previous preglacial civilization.

In my own small reality, with Antonella Vannini we ran into strong censorship. If you search for syntropy on Wikipedia, the negentropy page will open, which is a completely different concept. The page we published was systematically deleted, up to the point of removing the possibility of creating this page (in all the languages). Several times I have been approached by people who have strongly asked me to stop working on syntropy. When Antonella carried out the experiments for her doctorate that provide scientific and repeatable proof of syntropy, she became the object of very violent attacks, not at a scientific level, but at a personal one.

We asked ourselves the reason for this censorship and we concluded that someone obtains his power from syntropy, and that this knowledge is forbidden to the masses. Now we know that this “someone” is part of the same group that has been erasing the traces of the previous preglacial civilization for millennia.

But why they want to cancel syntropy? Perhaps because through the game between entropy and syntropy, this group can control the vital energy of people and nations.

Let's see how this control works.

The catabolic processes of metabolism are entropic and transform higher-level structures into lower-level structures with the release of chemical energy and thermal energy, while anabolic processes are syntropic and transform simple structures into complex structures, for example nutrients into biomolecules, with energy absorption. Catabolism and anabolism, entropy and syntropy, alternate giving rise to a continuous exchange of matter and energy with the environment. For this exchange to take place plants use water, humans use blood and the lymphatic system, nations use money. For this reason, whoever controls money also controls the vital energy of people and nations. Meyer Rothschild put it this way: “Give me control of a nation’s money and I care not who makes it’s laws.”

Let’s try to better understand how money works. Initially, money was made of coins minted by the state. This system was later coupled by banknotes which were introduced for the first time in 806 AD in China. Banknotes allowed those who had precious metals to deposit them with banks, for their conservation and protection, in exchange for banknotes. Banknotes could be exchanged, and other people could collect the precious metals, including at other banks. In Europe, the first account of banknotes was made by Marco Polo and the first banknotes appeared in 1661 in Sweden. Banknotes were issued by commercial banks and were guaranteed by the precious metals that had been deposited.

In 1694, in England, the commercial banks that issued banknotes were merged into a private national bank that had the monopoly on the issue of banknotes. This system devised by Charles Montagu gave birth to the first central bank, the Bank of England, which is the model on which Western central banks are based. The Bank of England immediately showed a total lack of ethics and humanity and the use of ruthless forms of violence and control. This was the reason for the American War of Independence, a war of independence from the Bank of England. Consequently, the founding fathers of the United States of America included a ban on central banks in the first article of the constitution. The Treasury had the authority over money and banks could only print banknotes guaranteed by Treasury bills. A war between bankers began: The Astors, Guggenheim and Straus, the most powerful bankers of the time, were loyal to the constitution, while the Rockefellers, Morgan and Rothschild pushed for the creation of a private central bank. Oddly enough, Jacob Astor, Benjamin Guggenheim and Isidor Straus died on April 15, 1912, in the sinking of the Titanic. Soon after, the FED, the US central bank, was founded and it was firmly in the hands of the Rockefellers, Morgan and Rothschilds.

The world stage, however, was dominated by the British Pound. Only eight months after the establishment of the FED the First World War started, the result of which was to give centrality to the dollar and to indebt all European countries and the US government to the FED.

At the end of the First World War, President Woodrow Wilson, who had signed the Federal Reserve Act, declared:

“I am a most unhappy man. I have unwittingly ruined my country. A great industrial nation is controlled by its system of credit. Our system of credit is concentrated. The growth of the nation, therefore, and all our activities are in the hands of a few men. We have come to be one of the worst ruled, one of the most completely controlled and dominated governments in the civilized world. No longer a government by free opinion, no longer a government by conviction and the vote of the majority, but a government by the opinion and duress of a small group of dominant men.”<sup>1</sup>

The debt ensured the FED control over nations. The gold that Germany had paid in the form of war reparations was acquired by the FED and returned to Germany in the form of an aid plan, granted by England and France, in turn to pay the war debt. This aid plan was covered by interests. Eventually, the entire German population lived in debt, under the blackmail of the FED which could withdraw its loans at any time and cause the country to go bankrupt. In 1922, a meeting took place in Munich between Adolf Hitler and the US military attaché in Germany, Captain Truman. Soon after, the financial miracle of the Nazi party occurred. Following major donations from abroad, the Nazi party won 6.4 million votes in September 1930, thus taking second place in the Reichstag. On January 4, 1932, a meeting was held between the major British bankers and Adolf Hitler, and on January 14, 1933, Hitler's program was approved and the question of the transfer of power to the Nazis was finally solved. On January 30, Hitler became Chancellor. The attitude of the Anglo-American government towards the new German government was very tolerant. When Hitler refused to pay the war debts, neither Britain nor France made any requests. Furthermore, the Reichsbank, the German central bank, had been transformed by Hitler into a private central bank. In May 1933, the Reichsbank received a one billion dollars loan and the termination of the payments of the old debts, and England awarded another two billion dollars the next month. Thus, the Nazis obtained what the Weimar Republic had failed to achieve.

The close economic and financial cooperation of the Anglo-Americans and the Nazis was the foundation of the policy that led to the Second World War.

When the United States entered the war, the FED declared that it was: “...prepared to use its powers to assure at all times an ample supply of funds for financing the war effort...”<sup>2</sup> Financing the war was at the heart of the FED policy. To support the financing of the war, the FED asked Congress to amend the Federal Reserve Act by allowing to buy government bonds in unlimited amounts, without guaranteed deposits, thus indebting the US government beyond any measure.

At the end of the Second World War the gold standard no longer existed, and between 1 and 22 July 1944, 730 delegates from the 44 countries that were winning the war gathered at the Mount Washington Hotel in Bretton Woods, New Hampshire, in the United States, to redefine a new international monetary order. The result of the Bretton Woods conference was to give the US dollar the role of the only international currency and the only currency backed by gold. All the other currencies were backed by the dollar. With the Second World War, the dollar acquired the role of international hegemony. The dollar was needed for all important transactions, from food to raw materials, metals and, of course, the purchase and sale of oil, which at that time was already proving to be the most strategic market.

- The silver dollar

The power of the FED had become a danger to the United States and several bankers, together with the United States Treasury, were trying to start an alternative monetary system based on silver certificates, banknotes guaranteed by US Treasury silver deposits. In the book A Monetary History of the United States, Milton Friedman and Anna Schwartz show that in the fall of 1929 the FED intentionally reduced the money supply, triggering the collapse of the US stock market and causing the Great Depression. Friedman and Schwartz write: “From the peak of August 1929 to the depression of March 1933, the amount of money fell by more than a third.” The result was what Friedman calls the “Great Contraction,” a period of falling prices and employment caused by the limited availability of money. Instead of providing liquidity, the FED accentuated the monetary contraction contributing to the banking crisis and causing the bankruptcy of a third of all US banks and their forced liquidation at very low prices. All the banks that were working on the new monetary system were wiped out by the Great Depression. The “silver dollars certificates” disappeared and the FED once again had the monopoly on the dollar.

Louis McFadden, Republican Member of the United States House of Representatives from 1915 to 1935, principal sponsor of the McFadden Act of 1927, described the FED with the following words: “Some people think that the Federal Reserve Banks are United States Government institutions. They are private monopolies which prey upon the people of the United States for the benefit of themselves and their foreign customers; foreign and domestic speculators and swindlers; and rich and predatory money lenders.”<sup>3</sup>

US President John Fitzgerald Kennedy was aware of the FED's overwhelming power.

With his executive order 11110 of June 4, 1963, he tried to rebalance the monetary policy by authorizing the Treasury of the United States of America to issue banknotes guaranteed by silver deposits.

JOHN F. KENNEDY

XXXV President of the United States: 1961-1963

Executive Order 11110—Amendment of Executive Order No. 10289 as Amended, Relating to the Performance of Certain Functions Affecting the Department of the Treasury

June 4, 1963

By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 301 of title 3 of the United States Code, it is ordered as follows:

SECTION 1. Executive Order No. 10289 of September 19, 1951, as amended, is hereby further amended --

(a) By adding at the end of paragraph 1 thereof the following subparagraph (j):

"(j) The authority vested in the President by paragraph (b) of section 43 of the Act of May 12, 1933, as amended (31 U.S.C. 821 (b)), to issue silver certificates against any silver bullion, silver, or standard silver dollars in the Treasury not then held for redemption of any outstanding silver certificates, to prescribe the denominations of such silver certificates, and to coin standard silver dollars and subsidiary silver currency for their redemption," and

(b) By revoking subparagraphs (b) and (c) of paragraph 2 thereof.

SEC. 2. The amendment made by this Order shall not affect any act done, or any right accruing or accrued or any suit or proceeding had or commenced in any civil or criminal cause prior to the date of this Order but all such liabilities shall continue and may be enforced as if said amendments had not been made.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
June 4, 1963

The intention was to shift the monetary control from the FED to the Treasury. The “silver dollars” were issued without interests and did not indebt the government. They were similar to the FED’s banknotes, except that instead of “Federal Reserve Note” they had “Silver Certificate” and the seal and serial number were red instead of green.

Five months later, on November 22, 1963, Kennedy was assassinated and the 4 billion “silver certificate” banknotes were immediately withdrawn, giving once again full control of the US dollar, government, media, and military establishment to the FED.

The Communist countries had not submitted to the dictatorship of the FED and were therefore the number one enemy. This justified the war in Korea and Vietnam which further put the US government into debt.

The FED began to impose the system of private central banks, the supremacy of the dollar and representative democracy. Any country that violated this policy was sanctioned.

- Representative democracy

The monetary system of the private central banks is based on a scam. Imagine a central bank (i.e., a printer) hired by a match organizer to print 10,000 tickets. Printing 10,000 tickets costs fifty dollars, but the central bank does not ask for the cost of printing but asks for the value printed on the ticket. If it prints 10,000 ten-dollar bills, it asks for 100,000 dollars in Treasury bills, on the grounds that the banknotes are “worth” ten dollars each. It is true that they are worth ten dollars each, but their value does not depend on the number printed on the banknote, but on their demand. The central bank knows this, but blackmails the organizers, the politicians, promising a generous gift to support their re-election. On the contrary, it will fund other candidates and discredit those honest people who have opposed it. This is what happens in all countries where central banks are private. Those who own central banks also control the mass media and lawmakers and this gives them total power over the nations.

In 1911 Robert Michels in the book

“Political Parties. A Sociological Study of the Oligarchical Tendencies of Modern Democracy” wrote that the costs of electoral campaigns and party organization have transformed representative democracies into the dictatorship of a small elite, that pursues objectives in conflict with the wellbeing of the people and the nation. An example was provided by Adolf Hitler. Thanks to financial and media support, he won 11 million votes in the 1932 elections, and this enabled him to become Chancellor. According to Michels, the function of representative democracy is to put corrupt politicians, servants of the central bank, in power to increase public debt, enslaving nations and people.

The Communist countries had not submitted to the dictatorship of the FED and were therefore the number one enemy. This justified the war in Korea and Vietnam which further indebted the US government.

In 1959, the United States' foreign deficit and gold reserves amounted to about 20 billion USD. By 1967, the deficit had reached 36 billion and gold reserves had fallen to 12 billion, due to increasing demands from some central banks to convert dollars into gold.

On August 15, 1971, Richard Nixon made the unilateral decision to end the Bretton Woods Agreements. The gold reserves of the United States had fallen to a fraction of the external debt, while the demands for the conversion of dollars into gold had become unstoppable. The gold standard was replaced by a flexible trading system, while the institutions created at the Bretton Woods conference survived. The International Monetary Fund and the World Bank are still active, and the GATT was replaced with the World Trade Organization.

At this point the world monetary system should have shifted from private central banks to state central banks, but the overwhelming US military superiority coupled with the interests of the oligarchs who controlled the FED led to the rise of petrodollars.

The gold standard was replaced by petrodollars, where the dollar was backed by oil. The United States began to impose this system, based on private central banks, representative democracy, the supremacy of the dollar and the exclusive use of the dollar in the purchase and sale of oil.

The first nation to be sanctioned for violating this policy was Chile. Salvador Allende, elected in November 1970, nationalized the central bank. The reaction was swift. On 11 September 1973 the world had to witness one of the bloodiest coup's d'état.

In 1974 the petrodollar system was formalized in an agreement between the US administration and the Saudi regime which sanctioned the equivalence between dollars and oil. With this deal, Saudi Arabia could only sell its oil in dollars and the surplus, about 70%, was to be used to buy US treasury bonds. This agreement signed with the Saudis was soon extended to all other oil producing countries. Countries that imported oil were therefore obliged to maintain large reserves of dollars.

The second oil crisis, that of 1979, strengthened the hegemonic role of the dollar. Oil prices rose 250% and the FED reacted by significantly raising interest rates, attracting a huge flow of capital.

Developing countries had already been drained because of the debts created by international organizations. In Europe, public debt was limited by laws that prevented borrowing from central banks, but by the mid-1970s central banks managed to evade these laws by starting to buy any treasury bills that were not placed. In this way they could indebt the governments in an unlimited way.

Within a few years, taxes were no longer needed to finance public spending, but to pay interests on the debt. Citizens and nations were forced to sell off their properties to pay interests on the debt, and entire nations were subjugated.

In 2000, Saddam Hussein challenged this system by nationalizing the Iraqi central bank and selling oil in currencies other than the dollar. Economic sanctions and war were immediate. Other countries, including Syria, Venezuela, Russia, Iran and Indonesia, began to consider nationalizing their central banks and using currencies other than the dollar to sell oil.

Anyone seeking to break away from the petrodollar system and the FED's dictatorship knew that they would suffer the same fate as Saddam Hussein.

Muhammar Gaddafi sought to establish a supranational currency, the gold dinar, which would unify Africa, removing it from private central banks and debt. Support was widespread, but the 2011 Arab Spring revolutions in North Africa and the assassination of Gaddafi stopped this project.

In 2005, Iranian President Ahmadinejad Mahomoud announced that the small island of Kirsh would soon host a hydrocarbon exchange where oil and other hydrocarbons would be traded in euros or other currencies, but not in dollars. Henry Kissinger put it this way in an interview in August 2006: “If Tehran insists, a military confrontation with America is inevitable”.

On December 8, 2007, the central bank of Iran, which is a public institution, officially announced its decision to convert all oil payments into currencies other than the dollar.

On February 17, 2008, shortly after the meeting in Davos, the Kirsh Stock Exchange was officially unveiled and became operational on July 18, 2011. On December 31, 2011, Obama signed a law requiring the United States Congress to punish whoever had financial transactions with the central bank of Iran, thus reaffirming the ban on detaching from the petrodollar system, the FED and private central banks.

In 2018 Vladimir Putin was re-elected president of the Russian Federation with a mandate to bring the Russian central bank under the control of the Treasury and parliament.

Putin is today the number one enemy of the Western world, the one who is leading countries to nationalize central banks and break away from the domination of the FED.

In order to eliminate Putin, Western countries are willing to escalate the Ukrainian crisis into a Third World War with the use of nuclear weapons.

False narratives

We have seen the false narratives of Covid, global warming, the sinking of the Titanic, the killing of President Kennedy and the fact that we are the first civilization in the history of this planet.

We mentioned that those who control private central banks use the game between syntropy and entropy and that for this reason they want to keep people in the dark about syntropy. We are told that we live in a world where there are only causes that act from the past, but the fundamental equations of the universe show that there are two types of energy, one that diverges forward in time and that is governed by the law of cause and effect and another one that diverges backward in time and that is governed by the law of attractors. This second type of causality acting from the future is now confirmed by countless experiments. Reality is the result of a continuous game between causes and attractors, a dance between visible and invisible, between entropy and syntropy. Attractors show that the universe has a meaning, that life is finalized, converges towards aims and is not the product of chance. The official narrative tells that we live in a reality governed solely by laws of cause and effect, where there are no purposes and life is meaningless.

False narratives are everywhere from mathematics, physics, psychology, statistics, and biology, and they become especially evident in war situations. For example, to justify the invasion of Iraq which led to the deaths of over 1.5 million civilians, the United States invented the narrative of the weapons of mass destruction. As everyone knows these weapons of mass destruction were never found and after years of war and deaths it became clear that it was a false narrative. The real reason for the invasion of Iraq was another: Saddam had nationalized the central bank. Immediately after Saddam's fall, the Iraqi central bank became private again. The same happened with Allende in Chile. Shortly after Allende nationalized the central bank, the West organized one of the bloodiest coups. The Western media was flooded with false narratives. The same for the coup d'état and the killing of Gaddafi, he had nationalized the central bank and was starting a new currency that would unite African countries, detaching them from the FED.

Now we are witnessing a new false narrative. Putin has become the leader of the countries that are nationalizing their central banks. The Western world wants Putin to end as Saddam, Allende, and Gaddafi. For this aim the Ukraine trap was set up in 2014. The West organized a coup that led to the removal of the pro-Russian president Viktor Yanukovyč, replaced by an openly Nazi government that started the genocide of the Russian population in East Ukraine. The genocide was denounced in international forums and in response Europe and the United States increased the financial support and the supply of weapons to the militias and the neo-Nazi government, with the clear intention of pushing Putin to act. Putin did not fall into this trap and continued his policy of nationalization of central banks, becoming even more the main enemy of the West. In 2016, during the US presidential elections, one of the main themes of Hillary Clinton's campaign was Putin. She repeated that Putin had to be eliminated even by resorting to a war against Russia. The situation calmed down during the four years of Trump's presidency, but with Biden the tension began to grow again and in 2022 when Ukraine was about to be annexed to NATO and would place nuclear missiles on the Russian border, a short distance from Moscow, Putin was forced to intervene. The Western narrative describes Putin as a new Hitler, who absolutely must be eliminated.

False narratives touch all fields and it is essential to recognize them and get rid of them. But it is not easy! When autonomous and independent thinking develops, others tend to see us as different and to discriminate us. However, staying in false narratives means living a meaningless life, with strong feelings of depression and anguish. To defeat our existential crisis, we must open ourselves to a broader vision, a truer vision, for example by avoiding the dominant narratives not only of the media, but also in the family and among friends. This has become evident during Covid where on television there was no room for scientists and Nobel laureates carrying a different perspective.

In my case, I became aware of dominant narratives in 1987. On the way to Australia, I stopped for a week in Singapore. I was struck by their news broadcasts that offered for each news a variety of narratives helping in this way the listener to build his own narrative. In Australia and then in Italy I was struck by the poverty of information that was offered. Only a single narrative was given, limiting in this way any autonomous thinking. This situation bothered me to the point that a few years later I decided to unplug the television from the antenna, bought a video recorder and started watching only tapes. To develop autonomous and independent thinking, the diversity of narratives is fundamental. Often those who are discriminated have an important narrative for us. For example, in 2008 I conducted a study on the Chinese community in Italy on behalf of the Ministry of the Interior and IOM (International Organization of Migration). This is still the largest study that has been carried out in this field in Italy. The Chinese community was a mystery. During this investigation, I met many Chinese people and developed relationships of friendship and trust with some of them. To the question I often asked about how it feels to live in a dictatorship, all the Chinese answered that the West is in a dictatorship, while their system is transparent. In China they know who decides, while in the West decisions are taken elsewhere, not in the parliament or in the government. This became clear during the Covid period when the vote of confidence was systematically used preventing the parliament from discussing the laws and thus imposing decisions on the country that were taken elsewhere. Deepening the Chinese system, I discovered that it is a mix of direct democracy and meritocracy, a system that allows highly professionalized people to be placed in key positions of the government and administrations. During this investigation, people from the Chinese community pointed out to me that representative democracy is a hoax, a scam that serves the interests of the money-controlling oligarchs.

To get out of this deception it is necessary to search for the truth, confronting different narratives and developing an autonomous and independent thought open to criticism and change. This process becomes easier when we trust intuitive thinking, the feelings of the heart, which often highlight among the many alternatives the true one.

After Covid

The new Omicron variant, which has emerged in South Africa, is putting an end to the pandemic. In South Africa it is described as a mild flu that does not lead to hospitalizations or deaths. To summarize what happened, let's retrace the history of Covid in India.

Daily New Cases in India

<https://www.worldometers.info/coronavirus/>

India is a country with a population of 1.4 billion inhabitants, 23 times the Italian population. In March 2021, the Indian government decided to start a vaccination campaign using Western vaccines, even though the positives had dropped below ten thousand new cases per day. Within a few weeks the pandemic exploded, with infections that increased by more than forty times, exceeding four hundred thousand cases per day. Since most of the new positives and deaths were vaccinated people, in mid-May the Indian Prime Minister stopped the vaccination campaign and signed an agreement with Russia to supply one billion doses of the Sputnik V vaccine.

After Sputnik V was used, cases declined to around forty thousand new positives per day in August 2021.

In September, the Indian government began distributing a free home care kit, costing just two dollars, which contains drugs such as Ivermectin that are impossible to be found in the West. Within three months, the new positives dropped another tenfold, settling at about five thousand new cases per day. But, in January 2022 the Omicron variant spread. Cases of positivity shoot up exceeding three hundred thousand units a day and towards the end of January a rapid decrease started, which has brought the Covid curve to zero. Within two months, the Omicron infected the entire Indian population making it immune and achieving the much-desired herd immunity.

The immunity that Omicron is providing has led most countries of the world to remove restrictions and vaccination passes. Italy, France, the United States and a few other countries continue with the restrictions and vaccination mandate for workers and students, trying to push everyone to get vaccinated. One wonders what the reason is, why they want to push the population to be inoculated with vaccines that are no longer necessary, which have proved ineffective and extremely dangerous.

Another measure that has no scientific validity is the Covid passport, that is, the document that certifies vaccinations. As of August 2021, Israel was the country with the highest vaccination rate. Despite this, infections shot upwards due to the new Delta variant. The media immediately accused the unvaccinated of being the infectors. However, data shows something very different. In August Israel began administering the third dose, the booster, designed specifically for the Delta variant.

Soon after the new cases dropped by 97%. The booster could only be given to those who received the first two doses.

Daily New Cases in Israel

It is therefore deduced that at least 97% of the positives must have been people vaccinated with both doses. This became public and doctors at the Tel Aviv central hospital confirmed that almost all those infected were vaccinated people.

A similar situation has emerged in the UK where a study by Oxford University in September 2021 showed that vaccinated people are 251 times more at risk of becoming infected and consequently, they are the main carriers of the infection: the vaccinated get infected and infect.

The official narrative changed and started to state that even if the vaccinated get infected and infect, the vaccine is necessary because it prevents the severe forms of the disease and deaths. This claim was also later denied. In countries such as the UK it has been observed that over 85% of deaths and ICU patients are vaccinated. This being the case, it makes no sense to use the vaccination pass instead of swabs. In fact, tampons remain the only tool that allows to ascertain the actual contagiousness of a person. Allowing people with the Covid-pass to move freely in workplaces, restaurants, transports, public offices, spread the infection, helping in this way to justify the state of emergency.

A further element of concern is since vaccines specialize the immune system on past variants, reducing the flexibility of the immune system. For example, ADE (Antibody-dependent Enhancement), discovered twenty years ago with the hemorrhagic fever vaccine, develops when the immune system recognizes the virus and produces antibodies, but the antibodies are suitable for older versions of the virus, and they are therefore ineffective. The virus spreads inside the person and the immune system begins to fight all the organs, causing the person's death.

Since the immune system has specialized and no longer has the natural flexibility, diseases that were previously resolved naturally or with the help of some drug, become incurable, as is the case with herpes zoster, infectious mononucleosis, cytomegalovirus, tuberculosis and tumors.

It is therefore no wonder that in 2021 there was a strong resurgence of tumors and other pathological situations that led to a sharp increase in mortality. Data from Western countries show a 40% increase in mortality in the 18-64 age group in 2021 compared to previous years.

In Italy, data on deaths and adverse effects from vaccines are not disclosed. But in Europe they end up in the EUDRAVigilance database, which is very detailed, divided by type of vaccine and by type of pathology caused. In this database of the European Medical Agency it is seen as of February 8, 2022 that the deaths caused by Covid-19 vaccines in Europe were 38,983 and the adverse cases 3,530,362, of which almost half (1,672,872) in serious form.

A disturbing post-Covid scenario is emerging, which many indicate as the pandemic of the vaccinated and which will lead to a drastic reduction in the world population.

But why?

The book shows that there is a secret that has been hidden from the masses. Astrophysicists who study solar emissions have identified 2032 as the starting year of a marked reduction in temperatures and the start of the next ice age.

Thanks to the concentration of immense resources, the elite that controls Western central banks, plans to save about twenty million people in the cities built in the mountains in Switzerland and in other nations. According to this plan, it is necessary to reduce the population, removing all those who cannot be saved, and this must be done by 2032.

Now that we are at the end of the pandemic, what is the legacy of Covid-19? It surely made visible a system in which humanity has been trapped for centuries, but few were aware of.

However, the legacy of Covid is also another one. If we compare the deaths of 2021 with the deaths of 2020, instead of observing a decline as it would be expected due to the vaccine, early home therapies and the reduction in lethality of the virus, we find that in 2021 mortality has increased. In Italy, from May to September, when the vaccine had now spread to the population, the mortality went from 252,889 deaths in 2020 to 264,653 in 2021 with an increase of almost 5%. This means an increase of about 25,000 deaths on an annual basis. However, Covid mortality has decreased by over 90%, passing, for example, from 992 Covid deaths on 3 December 2020 to 76 deaths on 3 December 2021. We would therefore expect a reduction in mortality by at least 40,000 units in 2021. However, data show an increase in mortality. Increase in mortality that insurance companies throughout the Western world confirm. The actual increase in mortality is therefore given by the sum of these two values: the 40,000 people who did not die from Covid and the 25,000 who died in excess in 2021. This exceeds 65,000. What is the cause of this increase in mortality?

I was involved in networks of doctors who refused the vaccine for scientific reasons. The following are some of the reasons:

- Luc Montagnier, virologist, Nobel laureate in medicine, discoverer of HIV and director of the Pasteur Institute, argued that in the next few years we will see the deaths from ADE of most people who have been vaccinated. The ADE phenomenon is described in thousands of scientific articles. It was discovered 20 years ago with Dengue hemorrhagic fever. When the immune system of people who had been vaccinated met a variant of Dengue it recognizes the virus and produced antibodies, but these were ineffective. The virus spread throughout the body and the immune system began to fight the entire organism, leading the person to death. In the case of Covid, the first certified death for ADE in Italy occurred on March 9, 2021, with the officer Stefano Paternò.

- Since June 2021, an unusually high number of professional football players and athletes have experienced sudden collapses, because of which many of them have died. On June the 12th 2021, the collapse of Inter player Christian Eriksen, who fainted in front of the cameras during the Denmark-Finland match at the Euro Cup, caught the attention of the whole world. Andreas Noack has found an explanation. The graphene hydroxide present in all the vaccines forms very thin but very resistant structures in the blood, such as tiny blades about 50 nm wide and 0.1 nm thick. In people under stress, these blades can cut blood vessels causing sudden bleedings. Graphene hydroxide is not biodegradable and remains forever in the body. One of the first consequences of the numerous sudden deaths of vaccinated football players was the ban that Gigi Becali, owner of the historic Romanian football club Steaua Bucharest, announced to his vaccinated players: “Athletes lose their strength after vaccination. It is the vaccinated people who die in hospitals, not those who have not taken the dose,” Becali said, citing irrefutable examples. “Some players remain inert due to the vaccine that weakens them. In Cluj against Rapid Bucharest the players were asleep on the floor, they seemed to faint. All those who have been immunized suffer the same consequences.”

With these words Gigi Becali announced that he will prevent vaccinated players from taking part in league matches.

- As we have already seen in over 60% of his patients, Dr. Charles Hoffe has found that spike proteins, designed to be mass produced in the bodies of the vaccinated, cause clots, particularly in the networks of capillaries, i.e., blood smaller vessels where blood flow slows down. The spike proteins attach to the cell wall of the vascular endothelium, becoming part of it. The endothelium should be smooth so that the blood flows smoothly, but due to the spike proteins it shows small, pointed fragments protruding. Platelets identify these alterations as damaged vessels and try to stop the bleeding by forming clots. Clots that form in the capillaries can be detected with a D-dimer blood test. Dr. Hoffe performed the D-dimer test on his mRNA vaccinated patients and found that 62% had these microscopic tissue-damaging blood clots. Some parts of the body such as the brain, spinal cord, heart, and lungs are unable to regenerate tissues. The result is that these people have reduced tolerance because the blood vessels in their lungs are blocked, the heart must work harder, and this causes pulmonary arterial hypertension.

With this condition they usually die of heart failure within a few years.

Scientific information received from doctors indicates that we will see a sharp increase in mortality.

The system based on Western central banks will try to divert attention from vaccines to another emergency or attribute the cause of deaths to a new pandemic. The narrative is already making its way. We often hear that the next pandemic will be far worse than Covid. The choice appears to be moving towards the Marburg virus. Marburg causes a viral hemorrhagic fever, characterized by hyperpyrexia, profuse bleeding, and systemic manifestations (erythromelalgia, cramps, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea) with acute onset, so severe that they lead to death within a few days. According to data from the World Health Organization, the death rate of Marburg is 88%. The positive news is that Marburg rarely occurs in humans because it is so lethal that it immediately kills the host, blocking contagion and spread.

The symptoms during the vaccine pandemic will not be due to a new virus, but to the long-term effects of the vaccine. As already mentioned, it seems that the goal is to reduce the world population to about 20 million people and to this end it is necessary to vaccinate as many people as possible, including children.

This is increasingly exposing the system that governs us. A growing number of people are realizing that something is wrong, and that the anti-Covid measures are not health-related but have another purpose.

What can we do?

The economic blackmail is very powerful and for young people the blackmail of the exclusion from social activities is even more powerful.

Few are able to resist this blackmail, but thanks to this pressure an increasing number of people are becoming aware of the deception in which they find themselves. The purpose of Covid is perhaps precisely this, to make people become aware.

With the Omicron variant, which has turned Covid into a common cold, we are witnessing the collapse of the official narrative and of the system that has gripped the West and the world for so long.

It is perhaps no coincidence that at this very moment the emergence of the Russian-Ukrainian conflict is beginning, which is hypnotizing the population on another narrative with the clear intention of diverting the attention from Covid.

Scenarios

In April / May of 2021 the prestigious medical-scientific journal The Lancet published a series of articles in which it showed that the RRR (Relative Risk Reduction) of vaccines still was 96%, since in 96% of the vaccinated they produced antibodies, but the ARR (Absolute Risk Reduction) was less than 1% as the antibodies produced were ineffective. The first vaccines were in fact made for the Wuhan 1 which in April was replaced by the English variant. However, the vaccine update to the English variant came when this had been replaced by the Delta variant. This caused the spike in infections of the summer 2021.

In September, the roll out of the “Booster” dose began, which included Delta and which in Israel reduced daily cases by 97%.

This graph shows an important fact. The booster could be given only to those who had received the first two doses. The 97% drop indicates, therefore, that in August at least 97% of the daily new cases had to be people vaccinated with a double dose: the Delta variant had infected almost only the vaccinated.

In mid-December 2021 the Omicron variant exploded leading to an explosion of infections among vaccinated people. Going against expectations, the Israeli Ministry of Health announced on December 28 that it was not trying to stop the spread of Omicron with vaccines, as the symptoms are very mild and its spread to the whole population will lead to generalized immunization.

Due to the strong contagiousness, the Omicron variant has prompted governments to request a Covid-test also for vaccinated people who wanted to participate in Christmas and New Year's Eve celebrations. Nearly all the positive cases were found among the vaccinated. It seems that the vaccine, instead of immunizing, makes people more fragile and vulnerable. However, the official narrative continues to promote vaccines and blames the unvaccinated.

Let's imagine a working group made up of six people of which only one is not vaccinated (represented here with a smiling face):

One of the vaccinated takes Covid but does not swab as he can freely circulate with the vaccination pass and thinking that it is a normal cold continues to go to work and infects the whole group.

The unvaccinated swabs every two days and when the infection reaches the unvaccinated, it is discovered. However, given that the infection was discovered through the unvaccinated, the newspapers title that an unvaccinated infected the entire working group. This example shows that to stem the infection everyone should swab, regardless of whether they are vaccinated or not. Having excluded the vaccinated from the swab requirement has spread the virus, justifies the state of emergency, the tightening of restrictive measures and the vaccination obligation. In other words, the measure of the vaccination-pass is groundless from a scientific point of view and leads to an increase in infections. This is why almost all countries have eliminated it.

As we have said several times, the goal of those that are in control is to reduce humanity to about 20 million people by 2032, when the ice age starts, and people will enter the underground cities that will host humanity for the next 120,000 years. The problems are many. One could compromise this scenario. With the reduction of solar emissions, the magnetic shield of our planet that blocks cosmic rays is also reduced. Cosmic rays thus enter the planet's core activating magma and volcanic eruptions. In the last years, volcanic eruptions have been on the rise, especially underwater volcanos. For example, in the Mediterranean, underwater eruptions have become so frequent that the lava of the volcanos is warming the water. The Mediterranean Sea is now about four degrees warmer. This fuels extreme climatic events such as the MediCane, the Mediterranean hurricane.

Data obtained from ice cores show that towards the end of each ice age, volcanic eruptions increase, and this happens with ever greater force and intensity.

The last of these periods is known as the recent Dryas. The Earth's crust, which is very thin, had shattered and the Earth was about to explode.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ice\_core#/media/File:Vostok\_Petit\_data.svg

Oceans boiled, while the air temperatures were freezing. This caused snowfalls of more than forty meters per day, witnessed today by the discovery of mammoths, still standing in the ice and with the food they were eating in their mouths. The Earth's crust is very thin and is already under stress due to the fast rotation of our planet. The Dryas of the next ice age will be even more devastating and in all likelihood it will lead to the planet's deflagration. The idea of surviving in underground cities for 120 thousand years seems a chimera.

There are other scenarios. Elon Musk, CEO of Tesla, and SpaceX, is building starships capable of carrying up to a thousand people at a time to Mars. Mars poses no risk of deflagration as it has a very thick crust. The other alternative is Venus, but the average temperature is 470 degrees Celsius, and the pressure of the atmosphere is 90 times that of the Earth. Having to transfer part of humanity to another planet, Mars offers the only possibility. Musk intends to bring at least forty million people to Mars before the start of the ice age. The rest of humanity will have to migrate to the equator which for a few thousand years will offer acceptable living conditions. In the meantime, structures will be built capable of reactivating the Earth's magnetic shield and counteracting the ice age. The idea is to put gigantic mirrors in orbit that reflect solar radiations towards the Earth, thus restoring the magnetic shield. This idea was first proposed by Olaf Stapledon in his science fiction novel Star Maker, published in 1937. The concept was later popularized by the mathematician and physicist Freeman Dyson in a 1960 paper. Dyson speculated that these structures were the logical consequence of the growing energy needs of technologically advanced civilizations, and that they were necessary for long-term survival. Dyson suggested to look for stars that show repeated darkening. The first was discovered in 2015 when unusual fluctuations in the light of a class F star were observed in the constellation of Cygnus. Now more than ten thousand are known. This suggests that our galaxy is crowded with highly advanced civilizations fighting their ice ages, trying to keep their planet's magnetic shield alive!

The secret of syntropy

With Antonella Vannini I have been working for years on syntropy and despite the many experimental validations we are still subject to censorship. It is now evident that those who control information do not want this knowledge to spread.

The law of syntropy arises from the fundamental equations of the universe, and has been verified thanks to a now large number of experiments that can be replicated with relative ease.

The famous energy-mass relation,  $E=mc^2$ , which we all associate with Einstein was previously published by Oliver Heaviside in 1890, then by Henri Poincaré in 1900 and by Olinto De Pretto in 1904. It seems that this equation arrived at Einstein through his Father Hermann who, as director of the “Privilegiata Impresa Elettrica Einstein”, had frequent contacts with the De Pretto Foundry which built turbines to produce electricity. However,  $E=mc^2$  does not consider the momentum, which is an important element of energy, and in 1905 Einstein added the momentum ( $p$ ), thus obtaining the energy-momentum-mass equation:  $E^2=m^2c^4+p^2c^2$ . Since energy is squared ( $E^2$ ) and in the momentum ( $p$ ) there is time, a square root must be used and thus two energy solutions are obtained: negative time energy and positive time energy.

Positive time energy describes energy that diverges forward in time from a source, from a cause, while negative time energy describes energy that diverges backward in time and which for us moving forward in time is energy converging towards an attractor:

Positive-time energy implies the existence of causes that act from the past, while negative-time energy implies the existence of attractors that retroact from the future. However, since the future does not yet exist, this energy was deemed impossible. Einstein removed it from his equation stating that “since the speed of physical bodies is practically equal to zero with respect to the speed of light ( $c$ ), we can consider the momentum equal to zero ( $p=0$ )”. In this way, he returned to the  $E=mc^2$ . However, in 1924 the spin of the electron was discovered; an angular momentum, a rotation of the electron on itself at a speed close to that of light. Since this speed is very fast, the momentum cannot be considered equal to zero and in quantum mechanics the energy-momentum-mass equation must be used with its dual solution.

The first equation that combined Einstein's special relativity and quantum mechanics was formulated in 1926 by Oskar Klein and Walter Gordon. This equation has two solutions: advanced waves and delayed waves. Advanced waves were considered impossible since they involve retrocausality. The second equation, formulated in 1928 by Paul Dirac, also has two solutions: electrons and neg-electrons (now named positrons). The existence of positrons (which propagate backward in time) was demonstrated in 1932 by Carl Andersen. Shortly after Wolfgang Pauli and Carl Gustav Jung formulated the theory of synchronicities: starting from the dual solution of energy, they concluded that reality is supercausal, with causes that act from the past and attractors that act from the future. However, in 1933 Heisenberg, who had a strong charismatic personality and a leading position in the institutions and academia, declared the negative time solution impossible. From that moment on, anyone who ventures into the study of the finalistic energy loses the academic position, the ability to publish and to speak at conferences.

Luigi Fantappiè had studied pure mathematics at the Normale di Pisa, where he had been a classmate of Enrico Fermi. He was so popular among physicists that in 1951 Oppenheimer invited him to become a member of Princeton's exclusive "Institute for Advanced Study" and to work directly with Einstein. As a mathematician Fantappiè could not accept that physicists had rejected half of the solutions of the fundamental equations and in 1941, while listing the properties of the positive time and negative time energy, he discovered that positive time energy is governed by the law of entropy, while negative time energy is governed by a complementary law which he named syntropy, combining the Greek words syn which means converging and tropos which means tendency. Entropy is the tendency of energy to dissipate, the famous second law of thermodynamics, also known as the law of thermal death. On the contrary, syntropy is the tendency of energy to concentrate, to increase differentiation, complexity, and structures. These are the mysterious properties of life! In 1944 Fantappiè published the book “Principles of a Unitary Theory of the Physical and Biological World” in which he suggested that the physical-material world is governed by entropy and evolves towards chaos, while the biological world is governed by syntropy and evolves towards finalities that are represented by attractors. Since we cannot see the future, the dual energy solution suggests the existence of a visible reality (causal and entropic) and an invisible one (finalistic and syntropic).

The dual solution of energy implies three types of time:

- Causal time: when the positive time solution prevails, that is, when systems diverge, as in the case of our expanding universe, entropy dominates, causes always precede their effects and time flows forward, from the past to the future.
- Retrocausal time: when the negative time solution prevails, that is, when systems converge, as in the case of black holes, retrocausality dominates, the effects always precede the causes and time flows backwards, from the future to the past.

- Supercausal time: when the diverging and converging forces are balanced, as in the case of atoms and quantum mechanics, causality and retrocausality coexist and time is unitary.

This classification of time was already known in ancient Greece where causal time was referred to as Kronos, retrocausal time as Kairos and supercausal time as Aion.

At this point a question arises: How does syntropy flow from the quantum level to the macroscopic level, transforming inorganic matter into organic matter? In 1925 Wolfgang Pauli discovered the hydrogen bond. In water molecules, hydrogen atoms are located in an intermediate position between the subatomic (quantum) and molecular (macrocosm) levels and provide a bridge that allows syntropy (cohesive forces) to flow from the micro to the macro. Hydrogen bonds increase cohesive forces (syntropy) and make water different from all other liquids. Due to these cohesive forces ten times stronger than the van der Waals forces that hold other liquids together, water exhibits anomalous properties. For example, when it solidifies it expands and floats; on the contrary, other liquids become denser, heavier and sink. The uniqueness of water derives from the cohesive properties of syntropy that allow the construction of large-scale networks and structures. Hydrogen bonds allow syntropy to flow from micro to macro making water essential for life. Ultimately, water is the lifeblood, the necessary element for the manifestation and evolution of any biological structure.

The dual energy solution suggests that the present is the meeting point of causes that act from the past (causality) and attractors that act from the future (finality).

Obviously, for this to happen, the contribution of the attractor, that is, of the finality, is necessary. When the finality is achieved, the attractor deactivates.

A virus, like Covid, is a living system that is fed by an attractor, by a finality. When this is achieved the living system is no longer nourished by the attractor.

It is therefore inevitable that all pandemics will end once their purpose is achieved, and it is important to remember that the logic of the invisible world can be extremely intelligent. For this reason, the outcomes of the Covid pandemic may be profoundly different from those that could have been imagined at the beginning.

Conclusions

This book was inspired by a strange coincidence. On November 11, 1918, the First World War ended with the signing of the armistice by Germany. At the same time, an apparently disconnected and inexplicable fact happened. The Spanish flu, which in the previous months had killed almost 3% and infected 30% of the world population, suddenly lost power. The peak was reached at the end of October 1918, but after the signing of the armistice, mortality plummeted, until it disappeared completely in early December. For example, in Philadelphia the week before the armistice there were 4,597 deaths, but from 11 November the flu no longer caused deaths and soon disappeared from all over the city. The waves of the Spanish flu were mainly three: in the spring of 1918, in the autumn of 1918 and finally in the winter of 1918-1919. After the second wave, in autumn 1918, the number of fatalities dropped sharply, almost to zero.

The Spanish flu killed people all over the world, including the inhabitants of remote islands in the Pacific Ocean and the Arctic Ocean. It was given the name “Spanish” since Spanish newspapers wrote about it. Spain did not take part in the war and the newspapers were not censored as it happened in the belligerent countries, where the rapid spread of the disease was described as an epidemic limited to Spain.

While most flu epidemics kill almost exclusively elderly or weakened patients, the Spanish flu killed mainly young, healthy males, mostly soldiers exposed to freezing temperatures and incessant rains.

The special circumstances of the First World War, such as malnutrition, field hospitals and poor hygiene, contributed to the spread of the Spanish flu which killed most of the soldiers in a few months. Those with a severe form of the flu were sent on crowded trains to equally crowded hospitals, spreading the virus even more. By 1918, the conflict had been going on for four years and had turned into a war of position that could have continued forever. Millions of soldiers were massed in trenches on various fronts. The Spanish flu emptied the trenches, bringing the First World War to an end.

Was this concomitance just a coincidence or did it contain a finality within it?

The question seems absurd, since the existence of a finality implies an invisible, intelligent plane, capable of acting in ways that are difficult for us to understand. Before excluding this possibility, however, I would like to present another case in which the intelligent action of an invisible plane emerges.

Males are naturally subject to greater mortality, and this happens because their genetic information (XY) is reduced compared to that of females (XX), the jobs they carry out tend to be riskier and often they participate in wars and social conflicts. To ensure that there is an equal number of males and females during the procreation period, the number of males that will die is offset by a greater number of males at birth. Under the law of probabilities, an equal number of males and females would be expected at birth; on the other hand, in industrialized countries, on average, 105 males are born for every 100 females. This imbalance in favor of males adjusts in advance of wars or crises that would lead to a greater male mortality.

This dynamism can be seen in the distribution of the male/female ratio at birth in Finland from 1751 to 2001.

In 1751 the ratio was just below 102% and then increased to over 105%, probably because male mortality increased during the industrial revolution.

In 1782, 6 years before the War with Russia (1788), the male/female ratio suddenly went from an average of 103% to 107.38%. Subsequently in 1911, 7 years before the bloody civil war and the Spanish flu (1918), which mainly affected young males, the value went from an average of 105.5% to 107.46%. Finally, in 1935, 4 years before the war with the Soviet Union (1939) the ratio went from an average value of 105.5% to 107.15%.

These strange variations seem to show a predictive power in the regulation of the male/female ratio, not only in Finland, but also in other countries.

But how can a community of individuals know in advance the number of males who will die before reaching the reproductive age? How do individuals manage to act in unison?

It seems that the male/female ratio at birth is regulated by information that arrives from the future, from an invisible plane that unites individuals in a whole.

The predictive power of the male/female ratio at birth is only one of the many manifestations of the purposeful properties of life.

The fundamental equations of the universe show that while causes act from the past, attractors act from the future. Attractors are the final ends towards which we are converging. The unity is due to the fact that several individuals share the same attractor. For example, the “human beings” attractor. This would lead individuals to behave according to the same logic and to share its finalities. Vital energy propagates backwards in time, from the future to the past, informing in an invisible way. Likewise, a virus like the Spanish flu also has an attractor. Therefore billions of viruses act as a unity, showing intelligent behaviors difficult to understand. When the attractor

(the finality) is reached, the vital energy that supports the pandemic suddenly disappears.

While with the Spanish flu the aim seems to have been to end the First World War, with Covid the aim seems to have been to unveil the system that has governed us for centuries. Now that this goal has been achieved, Covid's reason for being is no longer valid and as suddenly as the pandemic had manifested itself, so it disappears.

Solutions capable to stop and cure the pandemic of the vaccinated are now being tested. According to authoritative scientists such as Luc Montagnier and numerous other virologists, the pandemic of the vaccinated could lead to the death of 80% of the inoculated. Therapeutic protocols and remedies are being studied, the effectiveness of which is not yet known.

There is another level on which one can act which is the invisible plane of syntropy. Genes work as “quantum antennas” that connect to attractors and guide and direct the living system, its growth, its evolution and even consciousness. The mRNA vaccines modify these “quantum antennas”, altering the link with the attractors, with the invisible side of reality. The effects have already been studied on animals and range from the increase in sterility, to the malformation of fetuses, to the increase in tumors and systemic diseases.

Studies on syntropy show that the autonomic nervous system, the solar plexus, the heart, are the portals through which we connect to attractors.

This suggests that the damage caused by mRNA vaccines can be restored by shifting the focus from entropy to syntropy, from the head to the heart, thus strengthening the link with attractors.

A final question arises: are we perhaps in the book of Revelation?

We have seen the strangeness of the fifth and eleventh chapters of the Bible that hide the most important atomic constants behind apparently absurd numbers. It seems that the Bible was written by people with very advanced knowledge, but also with extremely developed precognition abilities.

In the light of this consideration and of current events it is enlightening to read in the Apocalypse of St. John (Revelation 13: 16-17): “It also forced all people, great and small, rich and poor, free and slave, to receive a mark on their right hands or on their foreheads, so that they could not buy or sell unless they had the mark, which is the name of the beast or the number of its name.” Today in some Western countries, anti-Covid measures prevent those who are not vaccinated from working and receiving money, from spending by going to shops, restaurants, bars and in recreational and commercial activities.

It is interesting to note the connection with CO<sub>2</sub> (Revelation 13:18): “Let the person who has insight calculate the number of the beast, for it is the number of a man. That number is 666.” Six hundred and sixty-six is the number that identifies Carbon: 6 protons, 6 neutrons and 6 electrons. Life is based on carbon as it is the only atom that forms long linear, and cyclic chains, to which other atoms are bound. It is therefore the only atom that allows the existence of complex molecules (amino acids, proteins, sugars, fats, etc.). Carbon has in its nucleus six protons of positive electric charge and six neutrons without electric charge, and around its nucleus six electrons of negative electric charge rotate. The number 666 identifies the carbon atom, the basis of life. As we have seen, we are at a time when the Beast's priority is to reduce CO<sub>2</sub>.

On the fifth of January 2022, exactly 666 days after the start of the first lockdown, the Italian council of ministers approved a decree in which the vaccination was made mandatory for the first time, thus going against the Italian constitution and the scientific data that show its ineffectiveness.

Furthermore, in this decree the end of this mandatory requirement is 15 June 2022, which as can easily be seen corresponds to 6-6-6 (adding the figures of the days  $1+5=6$ , the month, June= $6$ , and the years  $2+2+2=6$ ).

Does the vaccine for Covid-19 and the fight against CO<sub>2</sub> identify the signature of the Beast mentioned in the Apocalypse?

However, this period also coincides with the Revelation. The vaccine has in fact separated people between those who are hypnotized by the Beast and those who have developed independent and autonomous thinking. This has led to profound changes in the lives of many, redefining friendships, groups in which one participates and relationships even within families. Now only a minority of about 20% of the population has become aware of the Beast, this proportion is growing and could soon reach the majority of people.

It is important to understand that whoever controls money also controls the highest offices of the government, parliament, executives, magistrates, law enforcement, the military, education, and information. Citizens rely on these people and institutions, trusting them in exchange for a sense of normality. It seems that the purpose of Covid was to push the masses to become aware of the deception in which they find themselves.
